BENEFITS OF TAKING A SURVIVAL COURSE ONLINE Many people wonder if it's really possible to learn wilderness survival skills in an online survival course. The answer is ABSOLUTELY! Below are some of the most compelling benefits of taking an online survival course. LOWER COST: Online survival courses are significantly less expensive than live courses in the field. Teaching online allows a survival instructor to teach many people at once without all the overhead. This reduces costs and savings are passed on to student.NO TRAVEL: One of the biggest drawbacks of taking live wilderness survival courses is that it's rarely the course you are interested in is several states away. Online learning eliminates the need to travel (and take off from work). GET TO KNOW A SURVIVAL INSTRUCTOR BEFORE COMMITTING TO A LIVE COURSE: Taking an online survival course allows you to test the waters with a particular instructor at very little risk before committing to a trip to a live course. You can see their teaching style and make a very educated decision whether or not you plan to enjoy a more in-depth course with that instructor in person. LEARN AT YOUR OWN PACE: A huge advantage of online video education is that you have the ability to rewind and review lessons at your own pace. This is priceless when following home in your back yard or wild area. Due to time constraints in live courses, multiple demonstrations may not be possible. Online survival courses offer an infinite number of demonstrations. LEARN THE SAME TOPIC FROM MULTIPLE INSTRUCTORS: When you participate in a live survival course, you're typically limited to learning from an online instructor. This it only gives a teaching perspective and a series of experiences. When taking survival courses online, you have the chance to learn the same subject from multiple instructors. This gives you a much broader understanding of the topic because it is taught in different ways by multiple people with completely different people lifestyle styles and sets. Just because there are survival courses online doesn't mean live survival courses are outdated or useless. It's exactly the opposite. Online survival courses can garner genuine interest from someone I wouldn't otherwise consider traveling in a live course. I am a fantastic forerunner of live courses not only by allowing the student to learn survival skills on their own terms, but at the same time providing a passive income stream to the instructor. It's a WIN-WIN all around. The bottom line is that online survival courses offer the student (customer) more options. (Visited 1 time, 1 visit today) |
